

suns.works

Mystery Box Game Show and Art Exhibition

Federico Fellini
Julian Göthe
Mai-Thu Perret
Hanna Rochereau
Tobias Spichtig

November 27 – December 23, 2025
Extended until January 31, 2026

suns.works is delighted to announce Mystery Box: a group exhibition during daytime which becomes a dim-lit stage at night, for games to be played in a somnambulist scenography created by artists.

Playing with illusion and theatricality, the gallery's main room is transformed into an empty stage by Julian Göthe framed by curtains drawn in black rope. In alignment with the winter solstice, a mechanical countdown timer at one end of the space, is mirrored by a celestial clock at the other end of the room.

Blending ritual and commerce, artworks in the exhibition include Hanna Rochereau's packaging paintings, characters dressed in fantastical costumes envisioned by Federico Fellini for Satyricon, ceramic masks by Mai-Thu Perret and painted celebrities by Tobias Spichtig.

Games around art, during the longest nights of the year

Within this theatre of shadow and limelight, as if being invited by Eumolpus, evening guests will be prompted to check their coats for a night of hosted entertainment, inspired by television game shows. Drawing on behavioral psychology, the game play enables new constellations and "rituels de fête," where artworks are protagonists met by the audience, as the lights dim for show business.

To learn more about the evening program – and how to book a table and win original artworks and design objects – we invite you to visit our website.

Special thanks to: Altherr / Weiss, Bostich Berlin, Robin Buchholz, Ché Zara Blomfield, Dyson Switzerland, Fabian Frey, Gents Swiss Roots, Maurice Haas, Julia Heuer, Pascal Kaegi, Peter Kilchmann, Ann-Kathrin Kuhn, Francesca Pia, Studioli Roma, Sisley Paris, Till Langschied, Maximilian Mogg, and Zürischum.

Opening hours

Thu – Sat, during twilight hours, or by appointment

suns.works | Lorenzo Bernet
Quellenstrasse 27
8005 Zürich

suns.works | Lorenzo Bernet
+41 76 388 87 03 – info@suns.works